One of the Suggestions Made in the Interest of Public Safety is Use of Yellow in Automobile Tail Lights.

Chicago.—In the interest of public safety recommendations for the standardization of colors for traffic signals are being considered. These recommendations were made on behalf of the American Railway Association at a recent conference requested by the Illuminating Engineering Society and the International Traffic Officers' Association and held under the auspices of the American engineering standards committee. The recommendations are:

1. The principle of red for stop everywhere, unless qualified by a more favorable indication—that is at highway crossings with railroads if train is approaching. In fixed signals and in the hands of traffic officers, at street intersections, at the ends of streets, and possibly to indicate excavations in streets.

2. Yellow for tail lights of automobiles, possibly excavations in streets and for calling policemen, or for any other purpose where caution is required; possibly at busy street intersections to indicate that the traffic lights will be changed from red to green or from green to red.

3. Green lights for fire escapes, for proceed at street intersections and other purposes to indicate the way is clear.

In presenting these recommendations on behalf of the signal section A. H. Rudi, chief signal engineer of the Pennsylvania system, said:

"The railroads are particularly interested in eliminating the use of the red light for various purposes other than that of indicating danger or stop unless qualified by a more favorable color. They desire that any scheme devised may conflict as little as possible with their own signal systems already established and that uniformity of indications in the protection of highway crossings at grade may be established."

HAS GOPHER TURTLE

Miss Theodore Olsen is pictured here with the gopher turtle brought from the dry pine woods of Florida by Curator Englehardt of the Brooklyn museum. The turtle is a queer species and known to be a vegetarian, feeding for most part on grass and various farm products. It is exceptionally tame and harmless, and at the least show of battle or when the part of other animals will draw its head and legs into its shell.
